Abstract

The study aims at the insurance of nurses care provided to thalassemic children who are affected by anaemia the present study was composed of three stages in the first , started with the evaluation of the knowledge . skills and attitudes of the nursing staff concerning thalassemia in addition to the evaluation of satisfaction of care provider in the family with thalassmic child concerning the type of the care provided to their children the secound stage represent the orientation to prepare an educational program for the nursing staff concerning thalassemia and who to provide the appropriate health care in the third stage the evaluation of the effect of the educational program on the type of nursing care provided was carried out the study was performed in Ibn Al-Ather center for congental anaemia for the period from the 1st of july . 1999 to 1st of july, 2000 the sample of the study included all the nursing staff at the above center ( 22 subjects ) the result of the study showed that the quality of nursing care was beyond the desired level to the inefficiency of the nursing staff which represented by the relation between the high lack of information concerning kno wledge skills and attitudes and their effect on the type of nursing carealso the most of the attitudes of those who provide care in the affected child family were neutral in expressing satisfaction concering the service provided to the children in addition the educational program has great and positive impact in improving the type of nursing care the study recommends the necessit y of pepending on aspecialized nursing staff when dealing with such diseases and that the continued education should play it is role in improving the capabilities of the nursing staffing in providing the nursing care.